Safety review: Because of ALS and possible swallowing or breathing difficulties, have a clinician/pharmacist check this full supplement schedule for interactions and dosing. Vitamin D3 at 5,000 IU/day exceeds the usual adult tolerable upper intake level of 4,000 IU/day unless medically supervised; high-dose supplements may require monitoring.

Fitness & Recovery

Morning routine • Recorded plan, not a treatment prescription

1 First thing in the morning: Breathwork

Requested practice: Wim Hof breathing, 5 rounds. The typical method uses repeated deep breaths, a comfortable exhale retention, and a recovery breath. Five rounds is the recorded personal target, not a medically established dose.

How the breathing method works

- Breathing phase: Repeated deep breaths lower carbon dioxide (CO_2), which can temporarily increase blood pH (respiratory alkalosis).
- Retention phase: Holding after exhaling can temporarily reduce oxygen levels. The reduced CO_2 signal can delay the feeling of needing a breath.
- Recovery breath: A full inhalation follows when the urge to breathe returns; the conventional technique describes a brief recovery hold.
- Nervous-system response: Studies suggest a short-term increase in epinephrine and changes in certain inflammatory markers. Effects vary, and meaningful clinical benefits remain uncertain.

Why this practice was selected

- Potential subjective goals: relaxation, centered attention, perceived energy and focus.
- Research interest: modulation of sympathetic activity and inflammatory signaling; evidence is preliminary and does not demonstrate benefit for ALS progression.
- Breathing mechanics: deliberate breathing may encourage awareness of diaphragm and rib-cage movement, but should not be described as improving ALS-related respiratory weakness.

Important breathing safety note

ALS can affect the muscles used to breathe. Rapid deep breathing and breath retention may cause dizziness, fainting, or respiratory stress. Do not begin or continue the five-round method without individualized clearance from Alisa’s ALS/respiratory care team. Never perform it in a sauna, water, bath, while standing, or while driving. Stop if any distress occurs.

Fitness & Recovery

2 Following breathwork: Sauna + red light

Recorded target: 20 minutes of sauna with red light therapy. This describes the intended routine; it is not a validated session duration for a person with ALS. Temperature, device settings, and tolerance have not been documented.

Sauna: what is known

- Thermal exposure can increase heart rate and circulation, with some physiologic effects resembling mild physical exertion.
- People may experience relaxation and temporary relief of muscle discomfort. Some studies suggest possible cardiovascular benefits, but many are small or observational.
- Sleep benefits are plausible for some individuals but are not guaranteed. Weight loss from sweating is primarily fluid loss, not proven fat loss.

Red light therapy: what is known

- Red and near-infrared light are studied for selected skin and localized tissue outcomes; evidence depends on wavelength, dose, device and indication.
- Some indications have promising early results, but broad claims of reducing systemic inflammation, repairing nerves, or treating ALS have not been established.
- Red light exposure is distinct from heat exposure; it should not be assumed that a combined device delivers an effective therapeutic light dose.

Important heat and light safety note

Obtain personalized advice before sauna use, especially if Alisa has respiratory weakness, heat intolerance, blood-pressure problems, limited mobility, or trouble hydrating. Heat can worsen fatigue, dehydration, dizziness and fainting risk. Do not combine breath-holds with sauna exposure. Follow device instructions and appropriate eye protection for red light.

Spiritual Well-Being

Faith • Gratitude • Family • Peace

ALISA'S PROTOCOL • NOVEMBER 8, 2026 • VERSION 1

Daily Spiritual Practices

1. Morning personal prayer
   Begin each morning with personal prayer, seeking peace, strength, guidance, and an attitude of gratitude.

2. Family prayer
   Offer a family prayer for loved ones and for everyone who enters our home. Make the home a place of welcome, love, and peace.

3. Daily scripture study
   Set aside time each day to read and reflect on scripture, making room to feel the Spirit and find spiritual direction.

4. Laughter, love, and uplifting shows
   Choose uplifting shows and shared activities that bring laughter, connection, joy, and a welcome break from daily stress.

5. Practice gratitude
   Notice and express thanks for everyday blessings, relationships, and positive moments, even on difficult days.

A daily intention: welcome the Spirit, make room for joy, and stay grateful.

Personal spiritual routine; not a substitute for medical treatment or clinical care.

Spaghetti Squash with Homemade Tomato Basil Sauce

PLANT-BASED OPTION | WITH CHICKEN OPTION (FOR NON-PLANT-BASED)

Ingredients (Organic)

- House tomatoes – 8–12 large (for fresh tomato sauce)
- Spaghetti squash – 1 large (about 3–4 lb)
- Mushrooms – 8 oz (sliced)
- White onion – ½ medium (diced)
- Fresh basil – 1 handful (leaves)
- Cilantro – 1 handful (chopped, add at the end)
- Avocado – 1–2 (sliced or diced)
- Corn – 1–2 cups (cooked, fresh or frozen)
- Chicken breast – 1–2 lb (optional, for non-plant-based eaters)
- Sea salt & black pepper – to taste

How to Make It

1. Make the Tomato Sauce: Bring a large pot of water to a boil. Add tomatoes and boil 1–2 minutes until skins start to peel. Remove, cool slightly, peel, remove stems and cores, and mash.
2. Simmer the Sauce: In a saucepan, combine mashed tomatoes, diced onion, and sliced mushrooms. Simmer 20–30 minutes, stirring occasionally, until thickened.
3. Add Flavor: Stir in fresh basil and season with sea salt and black pepper. Add chopped cilantro at the very end, just before serving.
4. Cook the Spaghetti Squash: Cut squash in half lengthwise, remove seeds, and cook (roast at 400°F for 40–50 minutes, or steam) until tender. Use a fork to scrape into spaghetti-like strands.
5. Prepare the Chicken (Optional): Season with sea salt and pepper, then bake, grill, or air fry until cooked through. Slice into strips.
6. Assemble: Place spaghetti squash on a plate, top with tomato basil sauce, corn, avocado, and sliced chicken (if using). Garnish with extra cilantro or basil, if desired.

Key Steps at a Glance

1. Boil tomatoes (1–2 min)

2. Peel, remove stems & mash

3. Cook spaghetti squash & shred

4. Simmer sauce with onion, mushrooms & basil

Colorful Plate with Lemon Salad

A simple, organic, plant-powered meal with jasmine rice, three kinds of potatoes, pinto beans, and a fresh salad with cucumber, avocado, and cherry tomatoes, dressed with fresh lemon juice.

Ingredients (Organic)

Main Plate

- Jasmine rice – 1 cup (cooked)
- Pinto beans – ½ cup (cooked)
- Sweet potato – 1 medium (about 1 cup), sliced
- Yellow potato – 1 medium (about 1 cup), sliced
- Purple potato – 1 medium (about 1 cup), sliced

Salad

- Cucumber – 1 large (or 2 small), sliced
- Avocado – 1 medium, diced
- Cherry tomatoes – 1 cup
- Lemon – 1–2 (juiced, to taste)

How to Make It

1. Cook the rice: Rinse and cook jasmine rice according to package directions.
2. Cook the potatoes: Scrub and slice the sweet, yellow, and purple potatoes into even pieces. Steam, boil, or roast at 400°F (200°C) for 20–30 minutes, until tender.
3. Prepare the beans: Use cooked pinto beans (or rinse canned organic pinto beans and warm).
4. Make the salad: In a bowl, combine sliced cucumber, diced avocado, and cherry tomatoes. Squeeze fresh lemon juice over the top and gently toss.
5. Assemble and enjoy: Plate the jasmine rice, pinto beans, and three potatoes. Serve with the fresh lemon salad on the side or on the same plate.

Recipe Tips

- ✓ Roast the potatoes for extra flavor.
- ✓ Add a pinch of sea salt and black pepper (if desired) to the salad or potatoes.
- ✓ Squeeze lemon juice just before serving for the freshest taste.

What the Pho!

MAKE YOUR OWN PHO AT HOME

A light, flavorful, plant-based pho with vegetable broth, rice noodles, and fresh veggies.

Ingredients (Serves 4)

- Rice noodles – 8 oz (flat or thin)
- Vegetable broth – 8 cups (low-sodium if preferred)
- Fresh ginger – 2–3 inch piece (sliced)
- Pho spices – 2–3 star anise, 1 cinnamon stick, 3–4 cloves (optional, for classic flavor)
- White onion – 1 medium (halved or quartered)
- Garlic – 3–4 cloves (smashed)
- Lime – for serving

Choose Your Veggies (examples)

- Mushrooms (e.g., cremini, shiitake, or button)
- Bok choy
- Carrots (thinly sliced)
- Broccoli
- Snap peas
- Bean sprouts
- Green onions
- Fresh basil, cilantro, or mint

How to Make It

1. Make the Broth
In a large pot, add vegetable broth, onion, ginger, garlic, and pho spices (if using). Simmer for 20–30 minutes to build flavor.

2. Prepare the Noodles
Cook rice noodles according to package directions. Drain and rinse with warm water.

3. Add the Veggies
Add your chosen veggies to the simmering broth and cook for 3–5 minutes, until tender-crisp.

4. Assemble
Add cooked noodles to bowls, ladle hot broth and veggies over the top, and finish with fresh herbs, bean sprouts, green onions, and a squeeze of lime.

Serving Ideas

- Customize with your favorite veggies
- Add extra herbs and lime
- Make it heartier with tofu (optional)
- Serve with chili sauce or sriracha (optional)

Tips for Great Pho

- ✓ Simmer longer for deeper flavor.
- ✓ Use a mix of fresh, colorful veggies.
- ✓ Add tofu, edamame, or extra greens for more protein.
